Why should I use the Teacher on Tap method with my students?

- Listed in the AMEB, NZMEB, and London College of Music syllabuses.
- All original pieces, written specifically for woodwind instruments, with the specific challenges of each instrument in mind.
- The method is progressive and comprehensive.
- All pieces have recorded examples and model the sound and provide fun play-along accompaniments in a range of styles.
- Solo pieces go hand-in-hand with Teacher on Tap ensemble arrangements.
- At each level scales and technical exercises are incorporated to give a thorough grounding in technique and awareness of key centres. It's a convenient all-in-one package including scales, exercises, pieces and accompaniments. Just plug in and start learning...
- Extra learning materials are available for those who seek more in-depth information about the technical aspects of each instrument.
- Students find this method fun and interactive, while teachers find the material very productive.

Absolutely Brilliant

As a graduate BMus at UNSW, I can't recommend Teacher on Tap highly enough.

I used the old paper back versions of Teacher on Tap to learn the Sax and it's so good to finally see an e-version of these books, no more having to find the scratched up CD for accompaniment as it's all built in to the eBook!

Great stuff!

"I am a private and classroom Music teacher with 25 years experience. As a private woodwind teacher I have used all of the "Teacher on Tap" "Personal Trainer" books with my students. I can say without hesitation that these books are the best I have come across and I can highly recommend them. All three levels are clear and concise in their instructions and delivery of new technical skills and musical concepts. These new skills are complimented with studies and pieces representing many different genres. In my classroom I use many of the pieces written for the advanced book. These are exciting and technically demanding pieces and come with varied ensemble accompaniments creating much enjoyment for the instrumentalist."

Testimonials

Dear Richard: Thanks a lot for dedicating and sending me that happy piece of yours. I love happy music, and I'll use it as soon as I have the next big band gig (every time I want to have some fun and loose some money, I organize a Big Band!!!)

Keep swingin'!!!

The Paq-Man (D'Rivera)

Claims only gain full credibility when they can be demonstrated to actually work in practice. I am very happy to confirm from my own experience, that the aims set out in the introduction to the workshop manual of the "Teacher on Tap" course, have total credibility. The course really is excellent, the background information very helpful and the pieces so cleverly composed. I have not [yet] had a single lesson from a teacher and in attempting my first woodwind instrument at the age of 76 years, would never have believed it possible to have come this far in the time span, while exclusively learning from the above course. I have recommended it to many of my friends, so again Richard very many thanks for a terrific piece of work, that has opened up a new branch of the musical world for me.

Richard I love the piece – I am about to print it out and when I am back to Sydney next Wed I will play it through with my old buddy David Miller – we have a rehearsal 7am Wed morning at the Con. You are so talented!!!!!! If I get around to making another CD I may well ask your permission to record it.

Yes please!

I love it!

Let's play it yes.

Let's make this someday be soon :)

Who is playing in the recording?

LOVE IT Gracias mi querido Paq-man Anat

Hey Richard,

I received the books two days ago. They are great; I have just changed my whole strategy as far as sax learning.

I'll follow your method primarily; Rubank goes to the back burner, and used more for reinforcement and validation or complement to what I learn through your method.

Francisco A Fragoso

This a delightful collection of inventive duets and a very welcome addition to the repertoire for young players.

They are both challenging & rewarding to play, and offer the young instrumentalist the opportunity to hone their technique, rhythmic acumen & musicality, whilst traversing a colorful landscape of traditional & contemporary genres.

Entertaining to listen to, this collection would be just as well suited to recitals & student concerts, as it would to the teacher/student learning environment.

Just listened to the audio, what a great chart!!

Certainly some challenges in there, but well worth the effort

Just had a listen Richard, bloody brilliant! Great writing and playing on this. Quite advanced for the boys in the ensemble but will be getting for myself to use.
